CHEESE PLANT TO OPEN MARCH 1

"Our Town"

by J. B. WHITE

There seems to be some misapprehension in the public mind about the "national guide book" on which some 5,000 writers are now being employed by WPA. It is said the completed work will contain some 2,700,000 words, and will cost $2,689,000, or about $1 a word. That looks like large pay and would be if each writer were paid $1 a word.

But the fact is, the writers will receive no such sum, nor will they only turn in 2,700,000 words. They will write many times that amount of copy. Only what the editorial stall considers essential will go into the WPA publication. The rest of it chiefly local history, turned up partly by questioning those who knew it, will go into local records for preservation for posterity.

One great trouble with history is that it is lost and forgotton almost as soon as it is made. Some of it is buried in the files of old newspapers, themselves perishable. Some of it passes out of existence when men die who remember events, but leave no record of them. A great deal that is picturesque and valuable thus passes out of existence.

The job of the WPA writers is to discover and record a great deal of such material which, for their efforts, may disappear. What Washington does not want will still be kept in local depositories, where it will be available years hence when some inquirer wants to know.

Indeed, it would not be a bad idea to have such an inquiry and notation made every decade. We have found the Federal census of inestimable value, but it does not give us the more intimate facts of human interest which such a survey as that which the WPA is sponsoring can furnish us.

Distance lends enchantment, and when the twentieth century transportation cuts the distance in half or shatters it into even smaller fractions a lot of the enchantment of far places disappears. That is a high-sounding and pretty sweeping statement, but there is a case in point to prove it. The case is supplied by Noel Wien, an Alaskan airman, who reports that the Eskimo prefers a hut of wood to a tent of reindeer skins, and likes either one of them better than the house of ice pictured in the geography books.

This is sad and devastating news. There was an intense fascination in the tales of building the igloo and of the manner of living behind its walls. There was even a song about it, which no hut or tent could have ever inspired. But in this later day houses of ice and snow are found no longer —or at least very rarely.

After this it would probably surprise no one to learn that the Eskimo wears a union suit under his winter furs, and orders his ear-muffs from Montgomery Ward. Will he abandon his dog sled for a Ford, and trade his kayak for a motorboat? Does he go to the movies, and play bridge and the radio? Probably so; but if so, it is doubtful if the children of the Arctic will interest the rest of the world as they did when they were pictured warm and cozy in their snow houses while the winds howled outside and the aurora borealis lighted the path to the door.

Not infrequently we hear that the race is again witnessing an age of miracles. They are miracles wrought by those ever industrious necromantics, the scientists. We witness almost without observation, and certainly without emotion, the greatest marvels the world has ever known. We delve in the earth, fly in the air and rest upon the bottom of the seas. We communicate with one another across the hemispheres by etheral waves and even listen to the voices of the dead.

Along comes Valentine's Day, to distract us from the thoughts of these material miracles and to suggest that, after all, love and romance still remain to charm with the most

SCHOOL BONDS ARE VOTED HERE

New Building is Now Under Way

Cameron voters Tuesday authorized bonds of the city in the sum of $36,000 for the new physical education and vocational building at Yoe High School.

Bonds for this building have been sold by contract in advance of their issue an dthe contractor was reported ready to begin at once.

The vote was: For the bonds, 273; Against the bonds, 152.

Construction of this building was regarded here as a decided forward step in better educational facilities for Cameron.

Superintendent Perrin said this morning that contractors and architects will begin at once the construction of the building.

Cheese Plant Head Gets Co-Operation From the Farmers

B. M. Alexander, manager of the Kraft-Phoenix Cheese Corporation plant in Cameron, has been active this week in a canvass of the territory wats of Cameron for milk producers.

Mr. Alexander recently moved to Cameron from Colorado. In the communities of Marak, Yarrellton and Ad Hall, he contacted many producers. Mr. Alexander was thankful to Joe Slavik, prominent farmer and leader, for his co-operation. Indications are that a large supply of milk will come from the territory west of Cameron and embraced by the territory covered with Mr. Slavik.

Mr. Alexander was well pleased with developments and believes when the plant opens here on March 1st the production will exceed all expectations. A good price will be paid.

Butter Fat Price Is Higher With Plant Opening

Butter fat prices at the Kraft-Phoenix Cheese plant in Cameron when it opens on March 1st will be top market.

The February market opened at 36c per pound. G. F. Kraft said that better cows are needed. A cow producing three gallons of milk a day will yield about 25 pounds of milk. If the milk tests 5 per cent butter fat the cow will give one and a quarter pounds and at the present prices would bring the owner 45c per day from that source alone.

Peanut hay was discussed by Mr. Kraft as one of the best feeds and due to adequate soils here it can be produced in large quantities.

Mr. Kraft wants to see small trench silos for small producers who have 5 and 6 cows. These are ery valuable.

CHEESE PLANT NEARS COMPLETION IN CITY

The Cameron Cheese plant of the Kraft-Phoenx Corporation was well near completion Wednesday and will be opened for operation on March 1.

G. F. Kraft, building engineer, was delightfully courteous to a representative of the Herald who called to look over the plant.

From time to time this newspaper will give a word picture of this marvelous new industry. In the outset it must be understood that Kraft-Phoenix Corporation has come to Cameron to stay and operate an industry adequate to all needs. Its plant here is without capacity because it can be enlarged. Now it can take 25,000 to 30,000 pounds of milk a day.

Mr. Kraft is one of 8 brothers who founded this great American Cheese industry. He is a farmer and milk producer also. He owns a farm in Mississippi and has $7000 worth of good Jersey cows.

The plant here is 100x66 feet and is equipped with all modern machinery. There are two vats of 11,000 pounds capacity each and room for more to bring the capacity up to 50,000 pounds.

A large storage is outside the drive way for whey after the milk has been unloaded into the large steel vat. Whey, a valuable feed for pigs is pumped out again to the cans which have just been emptied of milk.

Near by are the mixing vats and across the room is the cooling room and the boiler and storage rooms are in the west end of the building.

Farmers can trade milk for cans. The company at this time, says Mr. Kraft, will assist farmers to find good cows and will co-operate with finance agencies to collect from farmers but will not assume any debts for cows.

The company has 400 ten gallon cans ready. They can be bought for $4.25 each and will be sold on time payments to farmers.

Milk Whey Good Pig Feed Says Plant Builder

Recently a pig weighing 25 pounds was fed on whey and shorts and in 86 days weighed 187 pounds.

Mr. Kraft says pigs thrive on it and become healthy.

Whey keeps pigs in good health, eliminates diseases. This advantage alone makes profitable the raising of hogs. Whey is said to contain about half the food value of skimmed milk.

Giant Star Buys Stock Farm on The Brazos River Near Gause

Joe Moore, recent hero in the World Series in the great Giant team of Bill Terry not only possesses the qualities to gain national recognition as an outfielder in the big leagues but has good judgment in other things and is keeping his eye on the future.

Each year after the baseball season is over, Moore, who is leftfielder for the New York Giants, comes back to Milam county to his home in Gause. He was born and reared in this small community, which does not seem to get too small for him.

Just recently he bought 400 acres of land near old Nashville, a historical spot of Milam county. He intends to raise cattle, and has stocked his pastures with a number of registered Herefords.

Moore is leaving soon for Florida, where he will enter into spring training with the New York Giants, with whom he has been for the past five years. Moore has been reputed as having one of the greatest arms in the major league. Moore rose to the

SPEAKING FOR FARMERS
OTHERS HAVE INTERESTS
PROPOSED PROGRAMS
SOIL CONSERVATION

Conflicting voices have been raised in behalf of the farmer since the Supreme Court delivered its fatal thrust to the AAA. Naturally, one does not expect complete agreement even among experts. Suggestions are many and varied but there seems to be no reason to become excited over the adoption of any particular plan.

The writer of this column has repeatedly emphasized in the strongest possible words the imperative need of some action to insure a greater income to American farmers. Any plan that has been, or may be adopted, is certain to be far from perfect and errors in administration are inevitable. Nevertheless, the plan finally put into operation should have a generous measure of support in order to give it an adequate test in meeting the needs of agriculture.

Naturally, the plan adopted in the present instance will be one acceptable to the Administration and Congress. Opinion as to its effectiveness will vary and advocates of other courses will be disappointed. Unfortunately, there is no way in the world to try all plans at once and it will be necessary to use the plan laid down by those in authority.

Farmers should also bear in mind that in considering the various plans suggested, it is necessary to listen to voices not strictly agricultural and to weigh the interests of others who may be affected by any program of agricultural relief. For example, the consumers of the nation will, for the most part, have to pay the bill in higher price for farm products, and they should not be forgotten. To be considered also are the transportation companies affected by crop curtailment plans, the processors who provide primary markets for farm products, and the various other interests dealing with agricultural products. Surely these classes are included among the people of the United States, and while their interest is not to be primarily protected in the farm policy, nevertheless, they should not be damaged any more than is necessary to accomplish the fundamental purpose of farm relief.

Amid so many "programs" for farm relief, it is sometimes hard to keep in mind the lineup of various farm organizations. It seems, however, that the National Grange favors subsides for exports and higher tariffs on farm products. The American Farm Bureau Federation would have conditional benefit payments to those who cooperate in balanced production. The Farmers' Union wants a guarantee of cost-of-production prices and the National Copoerative Council proposes a monetary authority to set up a unit of value with a constant purchasing power.

The new system of farm aid which the Administration is adopting under the pressure of the Supreme Court decision is one that is intended to adopt even if there had been no such decision. The outlines were sketched in a pamphlet issued in March, 1935, and referred to in this column.

A study of acreage of crop land harvester shows an average of about 360,000,000 from 1928 to 1932. Estimates are that 30,000,000 to 40,000,000 acres are for exports, about 290,000, acres for food products and 25,000,000 acres for non-food crops. The surplus acreage is between 100,000,000 and 25,000,000. These acres must be retired.

How to accomplish the purpose and solve the problem of distributing the benefit payments is what puzzles. Under the AAA there was a flat per centage cut, which payments based on a parity basis. The new program of soil conservation would require, it seems, some other basis of payments but just what it will be remains uncertain until legislation is completed.

Five hundred and forty-three million dollars—a large sum of money to squander on the war department; yet that is what they are asking of Congress. This is (or will be, if passed) the greatest peace-time appropriation in the history of the United States, and with financial conditions as they are, this seems very foolish. Although if it is intended mostly for defensive purposes, it seems that a better way to prevent war would be to organize the young men of the world against it. This would be very difficult, but with five hundred and forty-three million it could be done.

Take any individual in the United States, and ninety-nine times out of a hundred you will find that he is against war; yet our government yearly sets aside vast sums of money to conduct weapons for offensive warfare. In other nations, conditions are virtually the same. Why can't we all get to gether on the question? Maybe some student of Yoe High will some day find the answer.

PLAYS NET BAND OVER ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS

One hundred ten dollars were raised Tuesday night, February 4, by members of the Dramatic Club directed by Miss Jolly Blanche Pitts, who presented a benefit performance for the Cameron Band in the auditorium of Yoe High School. John Lane Baskin's name was omitted from the ninth grade six weeks roll and the nemes of Dana Kestenbaum, Ray Hubert Brashear and Milton Boone were omitted from both the ninth grade six weeks' roll and the semester roll.

JUST FOR FUN

By Neill

Woodrow L. "Did you fill your date last night?"

Hans G.: "I hope so. She ate everything in sight."

Grace M.: "And how do you know that Miss Elizabeth Jones has a set of false teeth?"

Mrs. Hefley: "Can any one in the class tell me why an Indian wears feathers in his hair?"

Billy C.: "Sure. To keep his wagwarm."

Dero: "Why did you break your engagement to that school teacher?"

Clinton B.: "I didn't show up one night and she wanted me to bring a written excuse signed by my mother."

Mr Wiese was taking the state teachers' examination and doing nicely with all the questions until he came across this one:

"Give, for any one year, the total amount of money spent for education in this state."

This baffled him. He scratched his head and fumbled with pencil and paper until a brilliant idea dawned, then he wrote: "In the year 1492—none."

Entering the Age of the Air.

The people of Milam County may be slow to realize it but we are about to enter the air age.

Of course we are no where near the absurd accomplishments depicted by the imaginations of fanciful writers, but the fact that Howard Hughes recently made a coast to coast flight in 9 hours, 27 minutes and 10 seconds is a good indication of the progress being made in air transportation.

While the present importance of air craft in combat is over--estimated, the probability is that future development will make air craft increasingly vital. It is not quite accurate to presume that aerial bombs have relegated other implements of war to the background but under-estimating the new fighting arm would be just as fooish.

As most of our leaders know, the government is attempting to interest manufacturers in the development of a plane adapted for private use and to stimulate mass production. When such a machine gets on the market, at a price within the reach of the average citizen, the sky will carry its share of traffic. In fact, the airplane is going to repeat the marvelous development and growth of the automobile and, much more important, duplicate the automobile's effect upon distance. Prophecy may be foolish but there are those living who will see the day when a thousand mile will be part of the day's routine.

Court Decisions Puzzling

Recent decisions of the U. S. Supreme Court attracted widespred interest, not only because of the effect of the particular decisions but also because of the implications contained.

Theoretically, there is soverignty that includes power to govern. In the United States this is divided between the Federal government and the State governments. Generally speaking, the Federal goernment has such power as is given to it by the constitution and power not specified granted are reserved to the States.

In the AAA decision the Court indicated that the power to regulate farm production does not lie within the Federal government. The inference would be that the power therefore resides among the several states. This, however, is by no means certain because the Supreme Court, using the "due process"clause, has been able to limit State legislation affecting citizens of other states. Recently in the Vermont income tax case of Colgate vs. Harey, it introduced the "privileges and immunities" clause as a limitation upon State power.

The effect of various decisions may create a condition wherein the Federal government is denied power to regulate because of limitations in the Federal constitution, and the State governments are denied the power to regulate because of prohibitions contained in the same document.

Plain Talk In China.

China, unorganized and with conflicting governmental authorities, is having its trouble with Japanese aggression. Unable to fight Japan, responsible leaders are temporizing as best they can and hoping that the day will come when the Chinese people will stand united before all foreigners.

The university students of China, like impetuous youth everywhere, demand action and insist that the government should fight Japanese penetration. Premier Chiang Kai-Shek, receiving a delegation of students and teachers, made them a very significant speech.

The plain-spoken dictator of Central China told the agitators, "If you want to fight, join the army," and assured them that the government had ample facilities to absorb all those wishing to take up arms.

Up To Lawyers

The Honorable Albert C. Ritchie, four times Governor of Maryland, in a recent speech before the Ohio Bar Association, intimates that the lawyers of the United States are the "guardians" of the foundations of the American government.

Undoubtedly, lawyers have played a predominant role in the 'governments" of the United States, including in that term state as well as federal organizations. They have contributed valuable services in many efforts to safeguard and protect liberty. At the same time, it should be readily recognized, even by the lawyers themselves, that they have also been useful to those interested in stamping out some expressions of liberty.

Time was, and undoubtedly will be, when the people of the United States will look to the Bar for leadership in matters affecting their liberty. Today, however, the general public has no such idea. It regards with suspicion many of the devices of the law and wonders why lawyers seem to be unable to clean out the shysters whose reprehensible practices blot the theoretical purity of the pages of justice.

Service Clubs Worth While

The phenominal growth of the popular service clubs has been an interesting development of recent American life.

In thousands of towns and cities men have joined the Lions, Kiwanis, Civitan, Rotary or similar organizations without much idea about what they were doing. However, once they begin to attend, to meet their fellow-townsmen and listen to programs that to some extent deal with local affairs and problems they develop a social consciousness. It is a by-product of the service clubs but a valuable contribution to any city or town.

Thousands of municipalities in the United States are without any of these organized clubs. They have hardly an opportunity to secure a co-operative attitude among the adult males of the community, because the men have no regular occasion to gather together, to spend an hour or so under circumstances that invite an intelligent approach to civic and social problems.

Cameron is fortunate in that it has seen the service clubs at work for the upbuilding of this community. Their contribution has been distinctive and worth while. We would be glad to see them spread elsewhere.

How Much Should the Nation Spend?

Government credit is based upon public confidence, a very sensitive and mysterious thing, which appears and disappears for reasons unknown to most experts.

Today the U. S. Government is spending more than its income and the prospect is that the process will continue as long as vast numbers of our people are unemployed. During the next year and a half, it will be necessary for the government to raise many millions of dollars in new money. So long as confidence in the stability of the government continues the task is not insuperable. However, somewhere ahead is the limit and government deficits must stop short of this point or financial chaos will ensue.

The Herald does not possess the wisdom necessary to specify how many billions of dollars the government can borrow without endangering its credit. So far as we know, no human being can do so, or forecast the vagaries that may influence the intagible entities that influence the public mind. At best, it seems to us, government spending should be limited to necessity and nothing should be done to increase the strain that grows as long as public expenditures exceed public income.

In saying so much, we might go further and express our opinion that the government, in spite of financial difficulties, must take care of an adequate farm program and provide reasonable assistance to the unfortunate victims of depression. Certainly, we subscribe to the dictum that no American shall be permitted to starve. If, after meeting these obligations, the government has money for other purposes, well and good; if not, other payments and expenditures should be withheld.

Says He Has Been Reincarnated

In a somewhat interesting story that comes from India, where an eight-year-old girl is attracting the attention of hundreds of thousands of pilgrims. She maintains that she has been reincarnated, gives her parents a description of her "past life," and, more to the point, insists that she was the wife of a cloth merchant in another city. Recently she insisted upon visiting her "son." Strange to say, she failed to recognize her "husband's" new wife and the news dispatch fails to tell us whether the husband recognized her.

The natural reaction of those who read such an outlandish story is to comment upon the foolishness of the pilgrims to swallow the girl's story of reincarnation. However, those of us who live in Cameron have other things to worry about and might turn our thoughts an ddirect our attention toward a careful scrutiny of our own beliefs.

Kipling Lays Down His Pen

The recent death of Rudyard Kipling recalls the mighty sweep of his verses, the fascination of his prose and the days when the great British author was the top-notch rage of his generation.

Space does not permit an account of his life or the quotation of his varied verse but, at least, the Herald seizes the occasion to recommend his writings to those who know them not.

Loyal son of an empire he loved. Kipling was, no less, the virile interpreter of human emotions, the weaver of magic lines and versatile enough to use prose and poetry to enthrall old an dyoung, male and female. Singing the songs of mankind, in varied moods and of many types, he left many tunes, some of them raw, some tender. Others carried the sting of a lash, contrasting strangely with the philosophical tolerance and amazing mysticism that is so delightfully apparent elsewhere.

Ellsworth's Rescue

Ellsworth took off from Dundee Island on November 23 and the outside world heard his radio for the last time some eight hours later, and a few hours before he landed about halfway between his starting point and Little America. The next day the explorer resumed his flight but was forced down after a few miles. After three days he again began to fly but once more came down within a few hours. After a week on the ice he landed to fix his position and flew a few hundred miles until his fuel gave out, about twenty-five miles from Little America.

He reached the Byrd depot four days later after traveling the distance on a sled. Here he and his pilot remained from December 9th to January 15th, when they were taken off by the "Discovery II," a vessel doing scientific investigating near the Bay of Wales but which went to his rescue.

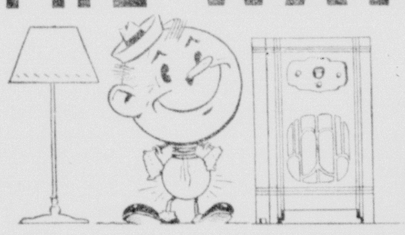
Refreshing Relief
When You Need a Laxative

Because of the refreshing relief it has brought them, thousands of men and women, who could afford much more expensive laxatives, use Black-Draught when needed. It is very economical, purely vegetable, highly effective. . . Mr. J. Lester Roberson, well known hardware dealer at Martinsville, Va., writes: "I certainly can recommend Black-Draught as a splendid medicine. I have taken it for constipation and the dull feelings that follow, and have found it very satisfactory."

BLACK-DRAUGHT

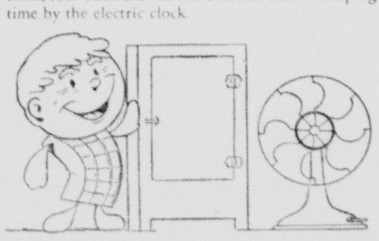
THE WATTS FAMILY Works for You



GLOWY WATTS . . This gay chap takes care of lighting all through your house. One of his slogans is "Better Light for Better sight." The radio is also one of his jobs. He might be said to be the arch enemy of Darkness and Gloom.

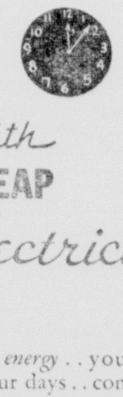
HOTSY WATTS . . Where there is electrical heat, there is Hotsy. She irons, cooks, percolates coffee, bakes waffles, warms your feet with the heating pad, and curls your hair. She's a "hot" number when it comes to work, as housewives know.

TIDY WATTS . . One look at this prim Miss and you just know she does the cleaning of rugs, draperies, and furniture with the electric cleaner. She washes clothes, washes dishes, and dries them, too. Then she has the constant task of keeping time by the electric clock.



COOLSY WATTS . . His name tells a part of Coolsy's story. He kicks up the cool breezes with the electric fan, and the new Attic Ventilator. He keeps the electric refrigerator cold, protects your food and your health. He operates the room coolers, and Air Conditioners.

DAY AND NIGHT



With CHEAP Electricity

. . SAVING your time . . your energy . . your money. Adding leisure hours to your days . . convenience to your work . . health to your family . . joy to your living, by means of Cheap Electricity.

The Watts are at your command all the time. In many instances they work hours at a time without your directing them at all. For instance, Hotsy Watts cooks whole meals while you are away from home; Coolsy Watts refrigerates food constantly, even when you are miles away; Tidy Watts keeps accurate time day after day, month after month; and Glowy Watts brings a variety of radio programs while you listen, worry-free and relaxed.

Think of the hours you spend reading, sewing, playing games, or visiting while Glowy Watts supplies you with Better Light for Better Sight.

If you are not making full use of the Watts Family you are missing much of the joy of living. Give them a "Thirty-day Full-use Trial" in your home. Use them in every way. You will be amazed at the number of jobs they can do. You will be pleased at the small cost. Demonstrate to yourself that the Watts Family is the most useful group of servants for you . . and, that their wages are the lowest in history.

New Home Opened By Legion Men

The American Legion opened the new club house to the public Tuesday night. The club is built on the lake in the Wilson-Ledbetter Park.

Four hundred colored lights, which are permanent fixtures of the club and a fire in the huge fire place lent warmth and color to the occasion.

Games of forty-two, dominoes and bingo were enjoyed by the guests. A quilt which had been made by wives of the Legion members, and which contained the names of each of the veterans of the organization was awarded to F. E. Woodruff.

Sandwiches and coffee were served.

PENSIONS

The general idea is that as soon as the bonus bill is passed and the veterans get their money, they will begin agitation for broadening pensions to widows and orphans of the veterans.

Admiral Byrd To Lecture In Waco At 8:15 Thursday

Admiral Byrd who has occupied a front page on all newspapers for the last five or six years since his marvelous and spectacular discoveries, crossing the Atlantic in a plane, flying over the North Pole, spending the long winter in the Antarctica, flying over the South Pole, talking over radios from the vast frozen areas in the country fartherest south, will speak at Waco Hall, Baylor University on Thursday night at 8:15. It is easily the most outstanding lecture of the year in Texas. Everywhere Admiral Byrd has been greeted by immense crowds and when it is realized that Admiral Byrd is making this tour in order to earn funds to secure the experses which he incurred in his great scientific researches, it makes every listener feel he is a partner in the great enterprise which is one of the outstanding triumphs of the ages. A full house is expected so one had better engage his ticket at once and be assured of a seat. This can be done by phoning A. J. Armstrong, Baylor University, Waco.

How Cardui Helps Women To Build Up

Cardui stimulates the appetite and improves digestion, helping women to get more strength from the food they eat. As nourishment is improved, strength is built up, certain functional pains go away and women praise Cardui for helping them back to good health. . . . Mrs. C. E. Ratliff, of Hinton, W. Va., writes: "After the birth of my last baby, I did not seem to get my strength back. I took Cardui again and was soon sound and well. I have given it to my daughters and recommend it to other ladies." . . . Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

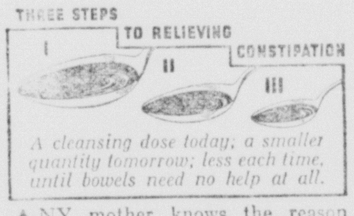
NO UPSETS

The proper treatment for a bilious child



ANY mother knows the reason when her child stops playing, eats little, is hard to manage. Constipation. But what a pity so few know the sensible way to set things right!

A liquid laxative is the answer, mothers. The answer to all your worries over constipation. A liquid can be measured. The dose can be exactly suited to any age or need. Just reduce the dose each time, until the bowels are moving of their own accord and need no help.

Doctors use a liquid laxative. Hospitals use the liquid form. If it is best for their use, it is best for home use. The liquid laxative they generally use is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Any druggist has it.

MOTHER! don't experiment with your Child's Cold

Often, "mere colds" have serious consequences. It is dangerous to neglect a cold—equally dangerous to experiment with half-way measures.

Feel safe! Use Vicks VapoRub—the proved external method of treating colds. No risks of constant internal "dosing", which so often upsets delicate digestions and lowers resistance when most needed.

DOUBLE DIRECT ACTION

Just rubbed on at bedtime, VapoRub fights a cold direct—two ways at once—by stimulation and inhalation. This combined poultice-vapor action loosens phlegm—soothes irritated membranes—eases difficult breathing—helps break congestion. Often by morning the worst of the cold is over.

NOTICE TO OLD AGE PENSIONERS

You have probably noticed in the press that W. S. Baugh, of Rogers, has been appointed District Manager for this district and there will be an investigator appointed for Milam County. It was thought that all applications would be made to this county investigator, but I am informed that such is not the case. Mr. Baugh informs me that blanks will be available on and after February 14, 1936, and that it will not be necessary for applicants to come to Cameron but applications can be made before any Notary Public or Justice of the Peace. After swearing to same, the application is mailed to W. S. Baugh, Austin, Texas, who in turn, sends it to the county investigator for investigation and a report, lots of red tape. It has been reported that I will have some official connection with the work but this is an error, however, to those who come to my office, I will be glad to render any and all possible assistance.

Application blanks are now in the hands of each Justice of Peace and I also have a supply in my office.

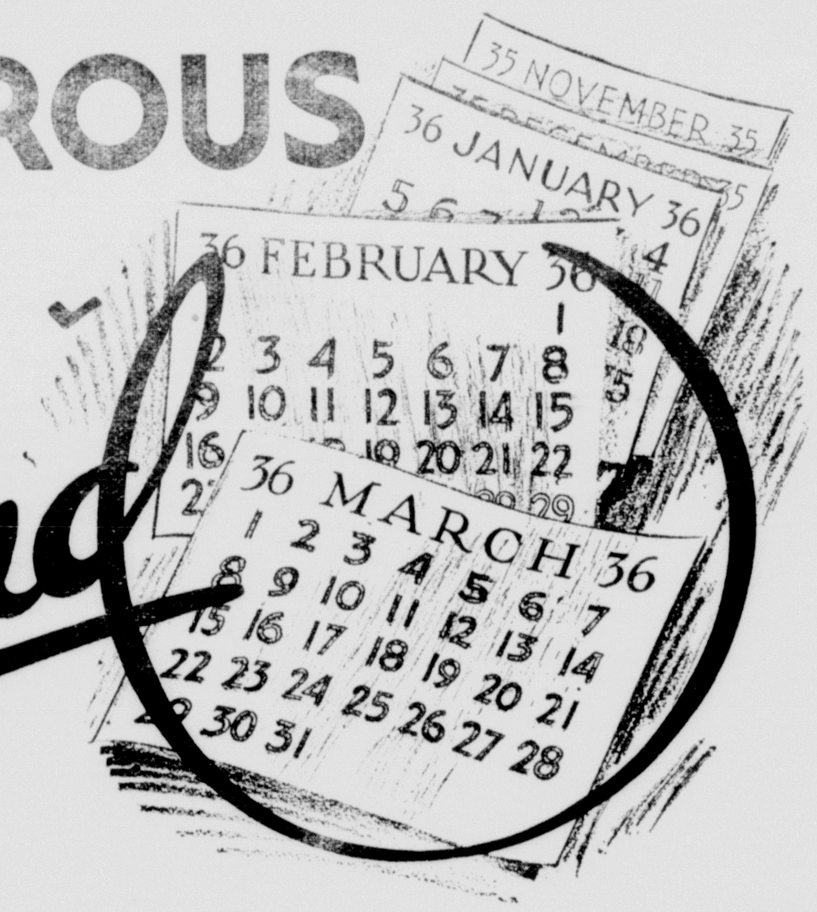
TREACHEROUS WEEKS ahead



Reports from health authorities advise that "colds" are widespread and especially severe this year and urge citizens to arm themselves against this insidious illness. Health-wrecking sickness is all too prevalent during this bad-weather season and it is vitally important to take special precautions against the attack of the common cold germ which has become America's Public Health Enemy Number One. Beware the dangers of the treacherous weeks ahead. For your health's sake keep your entire house comfortably warm!

Uneven and inadequate indoor temperatures are a constant danger to health during the treacherous winter months. Sudden changes of temperature, such as those experienced in passing from a warm room to a cold one, appear to be harmful to the tissues of the nose and throat which are the starting places of health-wreaking respiratory diseases. Quick chilling of the body lowers resistance and invites attacks from cold germs.

According to government statistics, diseases of our breathing apparatus are responsible for more deaths than any other single cause. While respiratory diseases often start seriously, they are closely related to "colds" and in many instances are directly traceable to catching cold. There is good reason, therefore, why physicians advise extra care in protecting health during the threatening winter months.

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure when your family's health is concerned and you can reduce the possibility of "colds" during the treacherous weather ahead by the simple precaution of proper ventilation and adequate heat in every room of the house. Try it for your health's sake!

Don't gamble with America's Public Health Enemy Number One, the common cold germ. Fifty per cent of all disabling diseases start with a "common cold." If you do catch a "cold" consult your family doctor before it has an opportunity to undermine your health.

The artists that draw for Herald Service are the same expert men who prepare illustrations for use by some of Chicago's largest advertisers. They know the type of work that unfailingly attracts the prospect's eye. Their work is practical—and consequently, resultful. It helps make advertising profitable.

There's a great deal more to copy than a mere collection of words. Copywriters must be students of every phase of marketing. They must know their product—they must know their prospect. Naturally the resources of the Tribune command men who star at their work. Those same men work for you when you use Herald Service advertising.

Advertising That Pays!
FREE! at This Paper

The basis of successful selling is knowledge and ability. Every salesman must know his product better than his customer does. Advertising that attempts to sell without thorough regard for that principle is doomed to certain failure.

For that reason, in seeking an advertising service which we might offer our merchants with confidence, we made every effort to go deeper than surface indications and make an exhaustive study of how and by whom our advertising material was prepared.

In choosing Chicago Tribune Service we were guided by several factors. First, was the more logical, stronger copy, the more attractive and timely illustrations. But more important, is the rganization back of the material. This service is created and designed by the same men who must make merchandise move in a large and difficult market. They must know advertising—they must test their product by actual use and results.

Naturally, those men are in position to know newspaper advertising needs, and the problems of big and little merchants. Naturally those men must have trained ability and the knowledge of merchandise and salesmanship. How well they do their job can be seen in the finer results their suggestions produce. Not advertising alone, but real thought, real selling effort makes the use of Tribune Service intensely profitable to merchants everywhere.

You owe it to yourself to make a study of this better modern method for building business. The latest copy of Tribune Service is in our office. See it, study it, use it with our help and in the columns of this influential newspaper for the finest results you've ever experienced from advertising.

Almost exactly a year after the death of her husband, the late Dr. J. M. Witt, Mrs. Mattie S. Witt, 79, died suddenly at 3:30 a. m. Sunday at her home, 705 South Fifth Street.

Mrs. Witt's body lay in state at the First Baptist Church for an hour Monday afternoon before the funeral services, set for 2:30 o'clock, at which her pastor, Dr. J. M. Dawson, officiated. Burial was made in Oakwood cemetery, Wilkinson-Hatch in charge.

Our grandfathers used their eyes to see at a great distance. Hunting game, watching for the hostile Indians required keen vision for the distance. Few papers, few magazines. Now it is typewriters, radios, delicate machinery—all require close vision. There is where eye strain comes in. Your distant vision might still be normal—but when you sit down to close work for hours you strain your eyes and sometimes headaches develop. This is when you need help. Many times properly ground lenses afford you this relief. In my office will be found the very best equipment for examining your eyes.

Laxative combination folks know is trustworthy

The confidence thousands of parents have in good, old reliable, powdered Thedford's Black-Draught has prompted them to get the new Syrup of Black-Draught for their children. The grown folks stick to the powdered Black-Draught; the youngsters probably will prefer it when they outgrow their childish love of sweets. Mrs. C. W. Adams, of Murray, Ky., writes: "I have used Thedford's Black-Draught (powder) about thirteen years, taking it for biliousness. Black-Draught acts well and I am always pleased with the results. I wanted a good, reliable laxative for my children. I have found Syrup of Black-Draught to be just that."

MARY—THE MOTHER OF JESUS

It is no exaggeration to say that there is scarcely any truth of Christianity that is so distorted or misunderstood as the doctrine involved in devotion to Mary. Even to those who would be kindly in their criticism, devotion to Mary seems to be given an altogether undue prominence in Catholic life and worship. To borrow a comparison from the great Cardinal wisdom, we admit at once that the church often does produce on our friends the same effect that a stained glass window may produce on a passerby outside. You walk down the street and come upon a great cathedral. From the outside, the windows of that cathedral present a mottled form of grotesque and unintelligible figures, leaving a false impression of what they truly represent. But enter in. What a difference. Every window is a gorgeous picture representing some scene in the life of Christ or of Christ's Saints; each picture is a perfect work of art, a revelation of the beauties of God. Thus it is with many a point of doctrine, particularly of this one of devotion to Mary. Within the fold of the church, the impression is entirely different.

To put this whole matter in the right light, let it be distinctly understood that Christ alone is the center and source of all salvation, the center and the source of all worship and adoration. We adore Jesus as our God and Saviour; we love Jesus above everything in all this world. No one else can take his place. We love Jesus with all our hearts; and just because we love Him, we love and honor all those whom he loved and honored. And who in all this world did Jesus love and honor quite so much as His own blessed Mother?

What son would be satisfied with the love and friendship of another, if at the same time that other slighted or scorned his mother? Christ who was a perfect man as well as perfect God thought no less of His own dear Mother than do we of ours, and most certainly expects that if we love and honor Him, we love and honor His Mother also. Even if Scripture said not a word about the Mother of Jesus, the natural instinct of the human heart would reach out in gratitude to such a benefactor, and love for what she has given us, the Lord and Savior of our immortal souls. But the Scriptures are not silent on this subject. Even Heaven sings her praises. In announcing the glad tidings of the Incarnation, the Arch-angel said to Mary, "Hail, full of grace,"or as the version of King James has it, "Hail, thou who art so highly favored, the Lord is with thee, blessed art thou among women." And then this angel of God went on to add, "The Holy Ghost will come upon thee, and the power of the most high shall overshadow thee; and therefore also the Holy which shall be born of thee shall be called the Son of God."

From the cave of Bthlehem to the Cross of Calvary, whereever we see Christ, there too beside Him do we see His blessed Mother. She is the Mother of Christ and for that reason we love her truly. Further than this, Mary is not only the Mother of Jesus but in a very special sense she is our Mother also, given to us as such by Christ Himself, and for that reason we love her all the more. As she stood beneath the Cross with Saint John by her side, the dying Savior looked upon them both and said to Mary, "Woman, behold thy Son," and then to John He said, "Behold thy Mother."

Behold thy Mother! Saint John stood beneath the Cross as the representative of the whole human race, and in him the human race received the legacy of love from the Savior Himself, His own blessed Mother. In the words of Saint Paul, are not all the followers of Christ one with Christ and members of His Body? His Father in Heaven is our Father. What is more natural than that Mary, His earthly Mother, should be our Mother also. We are most dear to her because we are most dear to Him. She looks upon us as her children, loves us, and by her powerful prayer and intercession secures from her Divine Son those heavenly helps that we need to reach our eternal destiny.

The honor we pay to the Virgin Mother then, is just not a bit of poetry. Devotion to her has raised woman up to the high estate that is hers in Christian civilization; it has sanctified marriage; it has inspired millions of human hearts to vow themselves to God in virginity; it has helped all mankind to live up to the ideals as chastity that noblest victory of the spirit over the flesh. Devotion to the blessed Virgin has inspired the brush of the painter and guided the hand of the sculptor. Music is richer for it, literature is its debtor. The world over, Mary, Mother and Virgin is glorified by great Churches cathedrals dedicated to her name, vast symphonies in stone, fulfilling her own prophetic words, when one said "Henceforth all generations shall call me blessed." And last, and best of all, daily the world over, filial hearts by the legion recite in faith and fervor that familiar prayer, the first half of which was uttered by the Archangel and the second half supplied by the Church: Hail, Mary, full of grace. The lord is with thee; blessed art thou among women and blessed is the fruit of thy womb, Jesus. Holy Mary, Mother of God, pray for us sinners, now and at the hour of our death. Amen.
